A Resource Guide for Seniors and their Families

25TH EDITION

Dedicated to the committed senior service providers who, with compassion and wisdom, make a profound difference.

HOW TO USE THIS RESOURCE GUIDE

Whether you are anticipating the future or coping with a crisis now, this resource guide can help you discover the resources you need to take responsibility for challenges you might encounter as a senior, or as someone who is caring for an older person.

This guide is a way for families to discover topics about which they can create meaningful dialogue. Getting older is a process in which every living person is engaged—it is a family and community matter—between spouses, partners, siblings, and the generations.

Social Security

Social Security (SS) 800-772-1213

..... TTY 800-325-0778

Social Security (SS) provides benefits to you and your (eligible) family. Benefits originate from the money you (or your spouse) paid during the years worked. To request a Social Security statement over the Internet go to www.ssa.gov. You may apply for Social Security benefits about three months before your retirement. Full Benefits may be rewarded to persons 65 and over (depending on the year you were born). Reduced benefits can be obtained at age 62.

Contact the Social Security office if you lose your Social Security card, become disabled, change your name or address, and at least every three years throughout your employment years to ensure accuracy of records.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI)..... 800-772-1213

Supplemental Security Income is a Federal program that pays monthly checks to people who are 65 or older, or are disabled or blind, and have limited income and assets. Eligibility is determined by amount of income, savings and property.

Medicare 800-633-4227

www.medicare.gov

Medicare is a comprehensive federal health care insurance program administered by the Health Care Financing Administration, providing hospital and medical insurance to persons entitled to Social Security (SS) benefits. To be eligible you must be 65 or older (and have received SS); have permanent kidney failure (at any age); or be under 65 years and have been on SS for 24 months. Apply three months before you need the coverage.

The original purpose of Medicare was to increase access to health care and reduce its financial burden on older, retired, or disabled Americans. Medicare was never intended to pay 100 percent of all medical expenses, but is a benefit that will cover some of the services you may need as you age.

Ensure any services you use are with Medicare-certified providers. Another valuable resource is to contact the billing clerk at the hospital or skilled nursing facility providing services to clarify your benefits.

As a Medicare beneficiary, you have certain guaranteed rights –

1. The right to receive emergency care when and where you need it, without prior approval.
2. The right to information about all treatment options from your health care provider in language clear to you.
3. The right to appeal if Medicare does not pay for a covered service you have been given, or if your doctor or hospital does not give you a service that you believe should be covered.
4. The right to know how your Medicare health plan pays its doctors (you must request this information).
5. The right to have any personal information that Medicare collects kept private, and to know why Medicare needs it.
6. The right to choose a women's health specialist from your plan's list of doctors.
7. The right, if you have a complex or serious medical condition, to have enough visits to a specialist to deal with your need.

8. The right to file a grievance if you have concerns or problems with your plan which are not about payment or service requests.

If you believe that your rights have been violated in any way call the Office of the Insurance Commissioner at 800-562-6900.

Medicare Part A – Hospital Insurance

Most people don't pay a monthly premium for Part A (sometimes called "premium-free Part A"). If you buy Part A, you'll pay up to $471 each month in 2021. If you paid Medicare taxes for less than 30 quarters, the standard Part A premium is $471. If you paid Medicare taxes for 30-39 quarters, the standard Part A premium is $259.

If you are not sure if you have Part A, look on your red, white and blue Medicare card. It will show Part A (Hospital Insurance) on the lower left corner of your card. You can also call Social Security.

Benefits begin when you enter the hospital and end when you have been out of the hospital or facility with skilled nursing care for 60 consecutive days. If you are re-admitted within that 60 days, you are still in the same benefit period and would not pay another deductible. If you are admitted to a hospital after that benefit period ends, an entirely new benefit period begins and a new deductible is owed.

Hospital Stays: Staying overnight in a hospital doesn't always mean you're an inpatient. You become an inpatient only when a hospital formally admits you as an inpatient, after a doctor orders it. You're still an outpatient if you haven't been formally admitted as an inpatient, even if you're getting emergency department services, observation services, outpatient surgery, lab tests, or x-rays. You or a family member should always ask if you're an inpatient or an outpatient each day during your stay since it affects what you pay and can affect whether you'll qualify for Part A coverage in a skilled nursing facility. For more information, visit medicare.gov/publications to view the fact sheet "are You a Hospital Inpatient or Outpatient? If You Have Medicare—Ask!"

Hospital Cost: To ensure the most accurate, up-to-date costs, call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or access the information online at www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers. In general, Part A pays for all hospital-covered services up to 60 days per benefit period, except for the first $1,484 for which you are responsible. The co-payment for 61-90 days is $371 per day, and $742 per day for 91-and beyond. There may be cost, as well as other, differences between Medicare Supplement plan and Medicare Advantage plan benefits.

Skilled Nursing Facility Cost: To ensure the most accurate, up-to-date costs, call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or access the information online at www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers. If your doctor has certified you need skilled nursing, the patient pays nothing days 1-20, $185.50 for days 21-100, and all costs after 100 days. Some of the covered services may include semi-private rooms, meals, regular nursing services, rehabilitation services, blood transfusions (except the first three pints of blood), drugs, medical supplies, and durable medical equipment (e.g., wheelchairs). There may be cost, as well as other, differences between Medicare Supplement plan and Medicare Advantage plan benefits.

Medicare Home Health Care Cost: To ensure the most accurate, up-to-date costs, call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or access the information online at www.medicare.gov/home-health-services. This can be covered under Part A or Part B, and there are numerous conditions which must be met in order to be eligible to receive this service, which are listed on the website named above. Under most circumstances there is no deductible, co-pay, or difference in covered services under either coverage. Physician certification that this care is necessary and a home health care plan are required in order to access this service.

Home health care services may include part-time skilled nursing care, physical therapy, speech-language therapy, home health aide services, durable medical equipment, and medical supplies used in the home. There may be cost, as well as other, differences between Medicare Supplement plan and Medicare Advantage plan benefits.

Medicare Part B – Medical Insurance

To ensure the most accurate and up-to-date costs, call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or go online at www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers.

Part B assists in covering services deemed medically necessary including doctor appointments, outpatient hospital care, and some other medical services that Part A does not cover, such as the services of physical and occupational therapists, and some home health care services. Part B also covers some preventive services. Enrolling in Part B is your choice. If you choose to have Part B, the premium is usually taken out of your monthly Social Security, Railroad Retirement, or Civil Service Retirement payment. Otherwise, Medicare sends you a bill by the tenth of the month. If you have not received your bill by the tenth of the month, contact Social Security.

Cost: Since all amounts are subject to change on a yearly or as-needed basis, in order to determine your monthly Part B payment, as well as the current Medicare deductible amount or any other information specific to your Part B enrollment responsibilities, call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or access the information online at www.medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers. Monthly Medicare premiums will vary for different groups of Medicare beneficiaries.

The standard Part B premium amount is $148.50. Some beneficiaries paid a monthly amount higher than that depending upon various factors, such as: (a) not enrolling in Part B when first eligible, or (b) having yearly income exceed $88,000 (if single) or $176,000 (for a couple). In addition, the cost of Part B may go up ten percent for each 12-month period that you could have had Part B but did not take it.

In 2021, you pay $203 for your Part B Deductible. After you meet your deductible for the year, you typically pay 20% of the Medicare-approved amount for these:

- Most doctor services (including most doctor services while you're a hospital inpatient)
- Outpatient therapy
- Durable Medical Equipment (DME)

Medicare Preventive Screening

Welcome to Medicare Exam

Medicare Part B (Medical Insurance) covers a “Welcome to Medicare” preventive visit once within the first 12 months you have Part B. You pay 20 percent of the Medicare approved amount after you meet the Part B deductible. You pay nothing for the “Welcome to Medicare” preventive visit if your doctor or other qualified health care provider accepts Assignment. The Part B Deductible doesn't apply.

However, you may have to pay Coinsurance, and the Part B deductible may apply if:

- Your doctor or other health care provider performs additional tests or services during the same visit.
- The preventative benefits don't cover these additional tests or services.

If seeing a new doctor be sure to bring your health records including immunizations, your family history and the list of prescriptions as well as a schedule of when the prescribed medications are taken. The exam will cover a review of your medical history, blood pressure, vision and other preventative screenings. The doctor will also provide you with a checklist explaining a schedule of preventative screenings that you should receive.

Other Preventive Services Covered By Medicare

Other preventive services covered either in part or in full by Medicare include cardiovascular screenings, various types of cancer screenings, flu shots, bone mass measurements (screenings for osteoporosis), diabetes screenings, and glaucoma tests. There are specific guidelines including frequency and types of testing. For more specific information about preventive services covered by Medicare you may call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or access the information online at www.medicare.gov.

Medicare Claim Accuracy

Be sure you are billed only for the care you received. If you have tried to correct a bill with the health care provider or supplier who submitted the claim and suspect fraud or abuse has occurred, call the Office of the Inspector General Fraud Hotline at 800-447-8477.

Do You Still Have Questions About Medicare?

If you have further questions call Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 for information regarding Medicare rights.

Medicaid (Washington Apple Health)

This federal assistance program provides funding for low-income people (including many people who never imagined they would qualify for Medicaid, but have had their savings drained because of health expenses, and thereby are eligible) to pay for medical and long-term care in-home services. Medicaid standards differ from state to state, but types of medical assistance coverage that may be included are inpatient and outpatient hospital services, periodic diagnostic tests, laboratory services, physician services, rural health clinic services, x-ray services and skilled nursing facility care.

Washington Apple Health: The public health insurance programs for eligible Washington residents. Washington Apple Health is the name used in Washington for Medicaid, the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), and state-only funded health care programs.

Anyone 18 or older may apply for long-term care through the Home and Community Services office. The application may be mailed to you or printed off the Washington State Department of Social and Health Services website at: www.adsa.dshs.wa.gov/pubinfo/benefits/medicaid.htm

SUPPLEMENTAL COVERAGE

Medicare does not pay for all your health care costs. Therefore, you may choose to purchase supplementary health care coverage (via employer or union health coverage plans, Medicare Supplemental Insurance, or State Assistance), or help in paying your health care costs through other resources (Medicare assistance programs).

Medicare Advantage Plans

The Medicare Advantage Program is an updated version of the Medicare + Choice Plan Program. The Modernization Act of 2003 provides more options for Medicare beneficiaries to enroll in private plans. For a monthly fee (in addition to your Medicare premium) you can choose features that more specifically meet your needs. Features that are provided through Medicare Advantage Plans include:

Managed Care Plans – A network of doctors is available through the plan. A primary doctor coordinates your care and referrals are required to see doctors out of the network.

Preferred Provider Organization Plans – Typically the doctors and specialists are predetermined through this plan. If you choose a doctor or specialist not covered through the plan you may have to pay additional costs. No referrals are necessary.

Private Fee For Service Plans – You may visit any doctor of your choice that will accept the plan's payment.

Specialty Plans – These are designed to meet special needs for people with certain health issues.

Anyone who receives Medicare Part A and Part B may join a Medicare Advantage Plan. Please check with the plan provider to find out what plan is best for your needs.

The Medicare Personal Plan Finder is a service provided through the Medicare website to assist you in comparing services available in your area. To access this information, visit www.medicare.gov.

Additional Medicare/ Medicaid Supplemental Plans

There are several basic ways to supplement Medicare/Medicaid coverage. For additional information on Medicaid supplemental programs call Community Action Connections (CAC) for SHIBA at 800-562-6900 or Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 for further information about Medicare plans.

1. Managed Care Plans

Managed care plans are prepaid, coordinated care plans, provided mainly by Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs). These plans focus on the relationship between the beneficiary and the primary care physician. Under this arrangement, the physician authorizes, arranges for, and coordinates all services for the beneficiary. Managed care plans may also offer benefits not covered by Medicare.

2. Medicare Supplement Plans – Medigap

Medicare Supplement Plans are one way to fill specific gaps in Medicare's coverage. In 1992 federal regulations set up uniform policies for Medicare. Each of the standard policies offer different groupings of benefits to address a wide range of individual needs. The best time to apply for these plans are within the six-month window of your Medicare eligibility. Contact Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 to get a complete listing of Medicare supplements, or contact insurance carriers listed in this guide for more information about Medigap.

3. Washington State Health Insurance Pool (WSHIP).....800-877-5187

www.wship.org

For persons who meet the following eligibility requirements:

Non-Medicare Eligibility Requirements

- Must be a resident of Washington state.
- Must have been rejected for coverage by an insurance carrier based upon the results of the Standard Health Questionnaire, or live in a Washington state county where individual health benefit plans are not offered.
- Not eligible for Medicare coverage.

Medicare Eligibility Requirements

- You must be a resident of Washington state;
- You must be enrolled in both Part A and Part B of Medicare.
- You must provide evidence of rejection for medical reasons, a requirement of restrictive riders, an up-rated premium, or a pre-existing conditions limitation on a Medicare supplemental insurance policy, or live in a Washington state county where individual health benefit plans are not offered.

If you have been denied coverage by private insurance carriers, call the Office of the Insurance Commissioner Consumer Hotline at 800-562-6900 for further information.

4. Qualified Medicare Beneficiary (QMB) and Specified Low-Income Medicare Beneficiary (SLMB) Programs and Qualified Individuals (QI-1) Programs

Individuals with resources below the poverty level may be eligible for partial assistance through the QMB, SLMB or QI-1 programs. These programs provide assistance to pay Medicare premiums and cost-sharing requirements. Eligibility is based on income and asset levels. Applications are handled by the Department of Social and Health Services Community Service Office.

5. Disability Insurance

Disability insurance replaces income you lose if you have a long-term illness or injury and cannot work. This is an important type of coverage for working-age people to consider. Disability insurance does not cover the cost of rehabilitation if you are injured. Check to see if it is covered by your major medical insurance.

Some employers offer group disability insurance. Or you might be eligible for some government-sponsored programs that provide disability benefits. Many different kinds of individual policies are also available.

CASH BENEFITS FOR SENIOR VETERAN'S AND SURVIVING SPOUSES

by Holland McBurns, Evergreen Elder Law

There is a little known benefit available to Veteran's and their surviving spouses to help pay for long-term care. This is the Aid and Attendance Pension benefit which is a cash benefit that is tax free. Why is this benefit important? Many seniors today are faced with the ever-rising cost of long-term care and the question is how will they be able to pay for care without going broke. In Washington State, long-term care costs continue to rise each year. For example, Assisted living costs are often well above $5,000 a month depending on the particular needs of the senior. Skilled Nursing facility monthly costs are peaking at often over $10,000. Many seniors find themselves selling their homes and depleting their assets in order to pay for care for themselves or their ill spouse. The Aid and Attendance Pension benefit can help. This monthly cash benefit is available to Veterans and their surviving spouses to help pay for and offset the rising costs of long-term care.

While the VA offers a plethora of benefits, such as home loans and burial benefits, the Pension Aid and Attendance benefit is a specific benefit for seniors. One of the often misunderstood things about this benefit is that the veteran does not need to have a service related illness or injury.

There are however certain criteria that must be met in order to be eligible for this benefit. First, the veteran must have served 90 days of active duty and one of those days must have been during a period of conflict. The periods of conflict are as follows:

WWII: 12/7/1941 - 12/31/1946
Korea: 6/27/1950 - 12/31/1955
Vietnam: 8/5/1964 - 5/7/1975
Persian Gulf: 8/2/1990 - Present

Although one of the 90 days must have been during a period of conflict, it does not need to be in country, the veteran must simply have been enlisted and in active duty. Second, the veteran must have a discharge other than 'dishonorable'.

In addition to the time in the military, the veteran or surviving spouse must meet the medical test. This includes needing assistance with at least some of the following: bathing, toileting, general hygiene, eating, transferring, and transportation. Most seniors with long term care costs will satisfy the medical test.

The final qualifications are that the veteran or surviving spouse must meet an asset and income test. The asset test allows for a net worth of $130,773. A home, "reasonable lot area", personal effects and some vehicles are not countable as net worth. Determining whether you qualify for the asset and income part of the test can be complex and difficult to understand. An accredited VA elder law attorney should be consulted.

Be aware that in 2018 the VA implemented a penalty for some transfers made within 36 months of applying for this benefit. Examples of transfers that may be penalized include gifts and transfers to a trust or annuity. Any penalty period will not exceed five years.

To satisfy the income test your gross income must be slightly less than your medical expenses. The resulting figure is considered your income for VA purposes. The veteran or surviving spouse must have high recurring medical expenses to qualify. For example, If a surviving spouse has income from social security and a pension that total $3,000 a month, and needs to reside in an assisted living facility with a monthly cost of care at $4,000, the surviving spouse has an 'income' for VA purposes of -$1,000 and would satisfy the income part of the test. Typically, the need for long-term care will satisfy this income test for VA purposes.

If you think you have too much income or assets, do not be mistaken. Determining which assets are countable and how many you can have can be complex and confusing. There are also many strategies that can be utilized to qualify for both the income and asset part of the test. We recommend that you speak with a VA accredited elder law attorney to see if you qualify for this cash benefit.

The cash amounts are paid directly to the veteran or surviving spouse on a monthly basis for the remainder of their lives. This cash benefit is also tax free. The total benefit received is often substantial, particularly when added up over a lifetime. The monthly cash benefit amounts for 2021 are as follows:

Veteran's Pension: $1,911

Veteran's Pension with one dependent: $2,266

Surviving Spouse: $1,244

The benefit continues for life and can have a huge impact on the level and quality of care for seniors. For example, if a veteran qualified for the Aid and Attendance benefit with one dependent and is in long-term care for the next 5 years the total amount received would exceed $125,000. Too many veterans and/or surviving spouses don't take advantage of this benefit because either they don't know about it or don't understand the complex qualifications.

The VA Aid and Attendance benefit can be difficult to navigate and determine if you actually will qualify, but it is an incredibly underutilized resource that more veteran's and their surviving spouses should take advantage of. Consulting with a VA accredited elder law attorney is the best way to find out how to obtain this cash benefit. Don't delay. This cash benefit could help your family pay for long-term care without spending down all of your assets.

MEDICAID ELIGIBILITY: KNOW THE FACTS

by Michelle K. Fossum,
Sayre Sayre & Fossum PS

A good estate plan involves preparing for the possibility of disability and long-term care.

Very few families have sufficient financial resources to pay for more than a short period of nursing home or in-home health care; and spouses and children of individuals who have suffered from a stroke, or who develop dementia, cancer, Parkinson's, Alzheimer's disease, Huntington's or similar disabling conditions may quickly find themselves facing devastating expenses. While certainly helpful, long term care insurance benefits may pay too little per month, or for too short a time, to cover the expense of long-term care. These expenses may be minimized with proper planning.

Medicare provides very limited long-term care benefits for a short duration for disabled seniors. When limited Medicare benefits end, you must cover these costs yourself. Such expenses can exceed $10,000 per month. Under appropriate circumstances, the state and federal government will provide long-term care assistance for you or your spouse in your home, in an adult family home or congregate care facility, or in a skilled nursing home under the Medicaid program.

To be eligible for long-term care Medicaid assistance, a couple must spend down to amounts established by federal law. To be eligible for Medicaid assistance with home care, assisted living, an adult family home or a congregate care facility, the well spouse may have no more than $58,075, and the ill spouse no more than $2,000, excluding exempt resources. If you need assistance for nursing home care, the well spouse is allowed half of all available resources, with a minimum of $58,075, up to a maximum of $130,380, excluding exempt resources. The ill spouse is allowed $2,000. For example, if you have a total of $100,000 in non-exempt resources and a spouse is in a nursing home, the well spouse will be allowed $58,075. If you have $300,000 in non-exempt resources, the well spouse will be allowed $130,380. A spousal transfer to the well spouse must be done, and the well spouse must spend down or acquire exempt assets to qualify. If you are single, you are allowed a maximum of $2,000, excluding exempt resources. The Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) adjusts these figures periodically.

Exempt resources (assets) that do not count towards these figures include the family home (unlimited value if you are married, $603,000 maximum if you are single), one automobile, irrevocable burial insurance, burial plots, some income producing properties (such as an active farm or small business), certain Medicaid exempt annuities, pensions and retirement funds, and assets in very specialized trusts. Long-term care insurance policies are not resources (although their income will reimburse DSHS in a Medicaid case) and may increase the exempt cash set aside by the value of coverage.

For planning purposes, a couple may be able to transfer assets into the name of the well spouse without penalty, acquire an exempt resource (such as paying down a mortgage, buying a new car, or purchasing a Medicaid exempt annuity), then qualify the ill spouse for Medicaid services. Currently, the well spouse is allowed an income stream equal to all income in his or her name, or $2,156 per a nursing home or the COPES home care program to cover living expenses.

There is no five-year lookback or penalty connected with transferring funds from one spouse to another, but if you transfer assets to a child before Medicaid is approved, the 60-month lookback applies, and draconian penalties await both spouses.

The gift penalty period is imposed at the time of application, which could be years after the gift was made. If you gift with-month from all sources. This figure may be increased if you have household expenses exceeding certain standards. For example, if the well spouse earns $2,500 per month and the ill spouse earns $600, the well spouse will keep all $2,500, but the ill spouse must contribute his or her income towards health care expenses. This is called participation. If the ill spouse is at home, the ill spouse must also contribute towards the cost of living before participating in health care costs. If the well spouse earns $1,000 and the ill spouse earns $1,500, the ill spouse will contribute $1156 per month to the well spouse, bringing the well spouse's income to $2,156 per month. The ill spouse will then contribute the balance towards care costs and may retain some income if he or she is in in five years of an application, a penalty is computed but imposed prospectively when you apply for help years after your gift, not when you made the gift. There are ways to minimize penalties in respect of transfers to children, but because of the horrible consequences of a carelessly planned transfer, no one should consider doing so without expert advice. Transfers from a well spouse to a non-spouse following placement of an ill spouse on Medicaid results in penalties only to the well spouse and should not affect care for the ill spouse. Transfers made prior to Medicaid eligibility affect both spouses.

DSHS has become extremely aggressive in collecting against Medicaid recipients' estates and, in some instances, will place liens on your home even before you die. Recovery is limited to assets held by the disabled spouse at the time of death, so an interspousal transfer must be completed to prevent DSHS from taking your home or exempt assets upon your demise. Failure to transfer the home or other assets will spell disaster for your spouse and children. An effective Durable Power of Attorney granting power to transfer assets to your spouse or children is critical. Internet, stationery store or other “do it yourself” forms do not contain adequate powers to allow these transfers and may force you into a guardianship proceeding or contribute to the practical impoverishment of you and your loved ones.

With a proper Durable Power of Attorney, people can avoid or minimize the qualification spend down. Without this document, you can anticipate significant difficulties with accessing Medicaid to help you with the staggering costs of long-term care. You must be extremely careful who you grant this power to, however. Relatives with powers of attorney can help save your assets, but they can also steal them. Only give this power to people you trust with your life.

The well spouse should have a Will containing a special needs trust for the benefit of the ill spouse so that, if the well spouse dies first, the estate will pass into a special needs trust set up within the Will for the ill spouse. This trust will protect the ill spouse for the rest of his or her life. When the ill spouse later dies, a properly drafted trust will pay to named beneficiaries, not to DSHS. Only a Will can provide this protection for a spouse. A living trust cannot.

Strategies exist to help people retain their life savings and home; however, effectiveness depends upon estate size, the planning undertaken prior to illness, and the skills of the attorney you are working with to maximize exemptions. Find and consult an attorney familiar with these complex laws before you take action and be sure your Durable Power of Attorney and estate plan stays updated. If you can afford it and are healthy, the purchase of long-term care insurance should be considered, and can save you from the need to access Medicaid or provide you a significant safe harbor should you need Medicaid to help with the cost of care by providing an exempt credit for your policy's value. This must be considered as part of an overall plan, but is not a solution in and of itself.

When you need a medical specialist, the best way to find that doctor is to ask other physicians. Finding an Elder Law attorney is no different. Ask your lawyer, doctor or accountant for a referral to an attorney experienced in Medicaid planning. Medicaid rules and regulations change frequently, and usually with little advance notice or fanfare. It is critical that the legal advisor has current knowledge of the Medicaid system. With qualified help, obtaining assistance with long-term care costs is possible, and could save you and your loved ones significant resources, allowing you to retire and receive care in dignity.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

With an Elder Law Attorney

Elder Law Attorney Lynn St. Louis of Elder Law Group PLLC explains important Estate Planning information for Washington residents.

WHAT MAKES AN ELDER LAW ATTORNEY DIFFERENT?

There are so many types of attorneys. A general practice lawyer does a little bit of everything, whereas a traditional Estate Planning attorney usually practices in Real Estate law, Business law, as well as prepares Estate Plans. A traditional Estate Planning attorney does not practice Elder Law, which is a separate and highly specialized area of law. Elder Law includes Estate Planning, but also focuses on preserving and protecting assets, especially from Long-Term Care costs. Elder Law attorneys can help those who are eligible qualify for government benefits to pay for care. Most importantly, Elder Law attorneys help people stay in control of their money and their affairs as they age.

WHAT ARE THE BASIC ESTATE PLANNING DOCUMENTS THAT EVERYONE NEEDS?

You've heard of a Will, which is an Estate Planning document that everyone should have. A Will only takes effect upon death and passes assets to your intended beneficiaries. Also important are your lifetime documents, such as your Durable Powers of Attorney for Health and for Finances. Another is a Healthcare Directive, which states your "end-of-life" wishes (also known as a Living Will or Advance Directive). These are essential Estate Planning documents that everyone needs regardless of age.

WHAT KINDS OF TRUSTS ARE THERE?

There are lots of different types of Trusts. You can have a Trust that is "Living" or "Testamentary", "Revocable" or "Irrevocable". The most effective way to protect assets against Long-Term Care costs is a Testamentary Asset Protection Trust, which is created through a Will. Upon the first spouse's death, the deceased spouse's assets fund the Asset Protection Trust for the benefit of the surviving spouse. While the Medicaid program places severe limits on the assets that a Medicaid beneficiary can keep, funds in the Asset Protection Trust do not count toward those limits. Furthermore, neither the State nor creditors can touch Trust assets. By utilizing a Testamentary Asset Protection Trust, 50% to 100% of a couple's Estate can be saved.

SHOULD YOU HAVE A REVOCABLE LIVING TRUST?

It depends. A Revocable Living Trust is intended to avoid probate. If you are single and have property in multiple states, a Revocable Living Trust might be a good idea. However, if you are married and live in Washington, a Revocable Living Trust can be extremely detrimental, particularly with respect to Long-Term Care planning. This is because Washington's Medicaid rules do not honor Revocable Living Trusts as an asset protection plan. In other words, if you have a Revocable Living Trust in Washington you cannot protect money against Long-Term Care costs for your surviving spouse. Most people don't realize that a Revocable Living Trust could end up costing them half to 100% of their Estate. That is why it is so critical to talk to an Elder Law attorney who knows Medicaid's rules.

"Most people don't realize that a Revocable Living Trust could end up costing them half to 100% of their Estate."

HOW DO YOU QUALIFY FOR MEDICAID?

Medicaid is an extremely complex and specialized area of law. In order to become eligible for benefits, you essentially must pass three tests: a medical test, an income test, and an asset test. To pass the medical test, you must have a medical need for Long-Term Care. To pass the income test, your income must be less than the cost of your care. Usually, that's not a barrier as Long-Term Care expenses can exceed $10,000 per month.

Financial resources get more complicated. To pass the asset test, your assets must be within Medicaid's standards. If you are a single person, that means you can have only $2,000 in countable assets. Countable assets are what you might think of as cash or investments: bank accounts, retirement funds, and real estate holdings. You can have non-countable assets as well, such as a home, a car, and personal property. For a couple, the resource standard is higher than a single person. Currently Medicaid allows a couple to keep $60,000 to $132,380, depending upon various factors. Couples can keep more countable assets because Medicaid has a policy against impoverishing the well spouse.

THAT SOUNDS PRETTY SCARY. ARE THERE WAYS TO SAVE YOUR MONEY AND STILL QUALIFY FOR MEDICAID?

Yes! That's the good news, and that's exactly what we do at Elder Law Group. Because we have in-depth knowledge of Medicaid's complicated rules, we are able to help our clients prepare to qualify for benefits: both years in advance and even at the time of need. Specifically, we provide Asset Protection Estate Planning™, which is designed to protect 50% to 100% of a couple's assets from Long-Term Care costs. Online forms, prepackaged plans, and traditional Estate Planning simply cannot protect assets against Long-Term Care costs. While you will have the most options by planning early, it's never too late – not even at the time of need. At Elder Law Group, we use exclusive Medicaid Asset Preservation Strategies® to qualify our clients for government benefits even when their assets are far above Medicaid standards.

WHAT IS PROBATE AND SHOULD I AVOID IT?

This probably is the most asked about and misunderstood area of Estate Planning. Probate is often thought of as a negative thing that you should avoid. In many jurisdictions, probate is complex, expensive, and completely unnecessary. In those situations, probate should be avoided. However, probate is not always a bad thing, especially in Washington.

Probate is the legal process to administer an Estate once someone has died. The Will is filed with the court, the court grants authority to the Executor (Personal Representative) to administer the Estate, creditors are paid, and assets are distributed. In Washington it's a simple process, assuming the Estate Plan was set up well.

Medicaid's rules are also very specific: you need a probate to protect assets for your spouse. It is through the probate process that the Testamentary Asset Protection Trust protects assets for your surviving spouse.

WHEN SHOULD YOUR ESTATE PLANNING DOCUMENTS BE UPDATED?

A good rule of thumb is to take a look at your Estate Planning documents every five years, or any time that there is a change in your circumstances. If, for example, there has been a death, remarriage, or some significant change in health in your family, it's a good idea to revisit your Estate Plan to see if any changes are needed.

WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE TO SOMEONE CONSIDERING GETTING OR UPDATING THEIR ESTATE PLAN?

There are many attorneys who will prepare an Estate Plan for you. As with anything, you really want to find a qualified professional. It's like going to a doctor - if you are going to have your shoulder operated on, you find the best orthopedic shoulder surgeon. Your general practitioner wouldn't even consider operating on you. So, when you're looking for an attorney to prepare your Estate Plan, and if you have assets to protect, I definitely recommend an Elder Law attorney. Ask questions about the attorney's qualifications - not just how long have they been in practice, but what area of law do they focus on? Do they have in-depth knowledge of Medicaid's rules? Do they prepare Medicaid applications? What is their success rate with applications? Who would you talk with at the firm if the attorney isn't available? Find an Elder Law attorney and a law firm that always will be there for you, understands your needs, and will help you accomplish your goals.

AN INTRODUCTION TO MEDICARE

Not a One-Plan-Fits-All Program

by Lynnell Wold, Broker/Owner
Health Insurance Options LLC

This article is intended to provide a basic understanding of the election periods available to Medicare Beneficiaries in addition to provide an overview of the types of Medicare Plans available to you. It is recommended that Medicare beneficiaries discuss plan options with an independent Medicare agent to make sure an informed decision is made.

UNDERSTANDING MEDICARE TIMELINES

Initial Enrollment Period (IEP)

Your Initial Enrollment Period is when you first become eligible for Part A & Part B. This may be when you turn 65, retire, or you have been receiving Social Security Disability payments for 24 months. If you or your spouse have worked 40 quarters and paid into Medicare, your Part A will not have a premium. Part B does have a premium based on your income. Those still working and have "Creditable Coverage" may wish to delay taking Part B. These individuals will not incur a Part B penalty if their employer's coverage is considered creditable. Your employer is required to inform you if your policy is considered "Creditable Coverage".

Medicare Annual Enrollment Period (AEP)

October 15th – December 7th each year. You may add, drop or switch a Medicare Advantage Plan, Part D Plan or apply for a Supplement Plan. All policies will begin Jan 1st of the following year.

Open Enrollment Period (OEP)

Jan. 1st – March 31st each year. If you enroll into an Medicare advantage Plan during AEP but change your mind. You are given one opportunity to move to another Advantage Plan or switch back to Original Medicare and purchase a Supplement and Part D policy. To begin the first of the following month

Special Enrollment Period (SEP)

You are allowed to change plans during the year due to special circumstances such as moving out of your service area, losing employer coverage, becoming disabled, receiving or losing extra help on your prescription cost, or if you qualify for Medicaid. It is important to note that each SEP has a limited time frame in which you must use your election or lose it. Contact Social Security or Medicare to learn your enrollment limitations.

UNDERSTANDING MEDICARE OPTIONS

To help us understand Original Medicare better, let's think of Medicare as having "Parts" and "Plans". Original Medicare consists of 2 "Parts", Part A and Part B. You then have the option of adding "Plans".

The 2 Parts of "Original Medicare"

Part A helps pay for hospital, skilled nursing facility, home health-care and hospice care. There are deductibles and co insurances when you use Part A.

Part B think "outpatient". Part B helps pay physicians services, outpatient services, durable medical equipment, lab work and ambulance. After an annual deductible, Medicare will pay 80% of approved procedures. You are required to have BOTH Part A and Part B in order to purchase a Medicare Supplement Plan or a Medicare Advantage Plan.

The 3 types of Plans

- 1) Medicare Advantage Plans are primary to Original Medicare and are referred to as Part C.
- 2) Medicare Supplements, are secondary to Original Medicare.
- 3) Prescription Drug Plans also referred to as Part D.

Part C

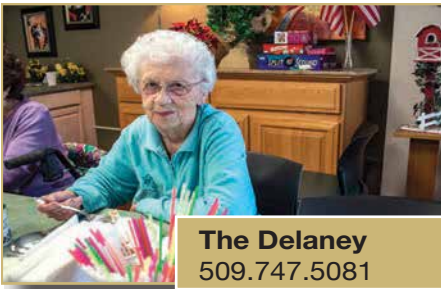

Medicare Advantage Plans usually incorporate A, B and D into one policy. Medicare pays a private insurance company to provide your health coverage. Part C must cover the same benefits as Original Medicare and may have a monthly premium in addition to your Part B premium. These are pay-as-you-go plans; you will have co-pays, co-insurances and a maximum out of pocket limit. Some plans have networks that you work within (HMO), while others offer out of network options (PPO & POS). Medicare Advantage Plans may include extra benefits not offered by Original Medicare like vision, dental, hearing and a fitness program.

Medicare Supplements

Private insurance companies provide Medicare Supplement Plans; also known as Medi-gap Plans. They are secondary to Original Medicare, Medicare pays for Medicare eligible benefits then the Medi-gap Plan pays some or all of the client's remaining portion. Medi-gap's do not include a Part D Plan. Because Medicare is primary, you do not work with a network but must see providers that take Medicare. Some plans provide limited coverage outside of the US.

Part D

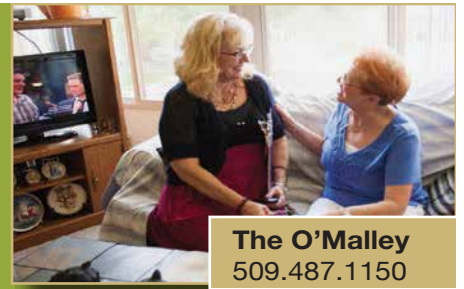

Refers to a Medicare Prescription Drug Plan. If you chose to keep Original Medicare primary, you can purchase a Part D Plan. If you have the VA for medications, the VA is considered "Creditable Coverage" and you will not need a Part D Plan. If you have chosen to purchase a Medicare Advantage Plan, in most cases, you cannot purchase a separate Part D Plan. You should note if you choose not to sign up for a Part D Plan, a penalty may be assessed.

CarePatrol
Better Senior Living Choices

CarePatrol is a resource, free to Seniors, that helps them and their loved ones find care options including assisted living, independent living, memory care, in-home care, and nursing homes. Our services help Seniors meet their financial, personal, and geographic needs.

Retirement Community Housing

Retirement communities usually have free-standing or independent units within a larger complex, and provide a minimum of one meal a day, weekly house cleaning, and activities. They also provide varying levels of personal and health care services ranging from independent to assisted living to skilled nursing care. The financial arrangements or contracts offered to residents may include the following –

Time to Make a Move?

- Home too big?
- Too many stairs?
- Lots of repairs needed?

If you decide to downsize, I can help! Let's take the first step together.

Senior Helpers has become one of the most trusted providers of in-home care services. Thanks to our responsiveness, dependability, and personalized care, Senior Helpers is committed to ensuring better quality of life for your loved one and peace of mind for your family. Let us create a customized care plan that matches your needs, whether it's one to 24 hour care, so that you or your loved one remains safe and independent at home. PLEASE SEE OUR AD ON PAGE 53.

Total Care, Inc.509-368-9252

Total Care, an Aveanna company, is a state-certified, bonded, and insured home health care agency. We are dedicated to providing quality care and a safe environment. We offer choices, security, and confidentiality in your own home, and our services are available as needed or around the clock. PLEASE SEE OUR AD ON PAGE 7.

HOME HEALTH CARE

For non-medical home care needs see Home Care and Home Support Services on pages 41 and 64. Also see Home Health Care in Chapter 3, on page 65 for additional home health care information.

Home health care services are available to those who have difficulty leaving home and need skilled services. A physician's order is required before providing care. Medicare, Medicaid, and private insurance may cover home health services. Home health care provides necessary care while teaching the patient and/or caregiver how to manage the care on their own. Staff can also evaluate how to make the home safe for the patient.

Live-In Home Care

You may contact the Area Agency on Aging (See page 61 for contact information), the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) – Home and Community Services (HCS), or a geriatric care management company for live-in home care resources.

Moving to an Assisted Living Community

You can also secure this assistance by moving to an assisted living facility. This may be a free-standing facility or part of a retirement community.

Each of these options feature assisted living units – or private apartments with bath and access to a kitchenette. Meals, limited supervision, help with medications, physical and occupational therapies, and limited nursing services are offered.

The special features for assisted living can vary greatly from one facility to another, so it is important to take time to evaluate the possibilities before making a choice. For instance, assessing a facility's capacity for long-term (versus short-term) care could impact one's decisions.

Adult Family Home Care

Adult family homes are licensed, traditional, private homes in which personal care, special care, and room and board are made available to more than one, but not more than six, adults. Adult family homes have provide different types and varying levels of care. Some homes are gender specific, other homes accept persons with specific conditions such as homes that provide care for the developmentally disabled, persons with dementia, or mental illness.

Skilled Nursing Care

Medicare and managed care agencies use skilled nursing facilities for brief recovery from illness requiring concentrated professional rehabilitation as a step between hospital and home. When long-term professional help is required, the focus should be on the quality of life. The Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) – Home and Community Services (HCS) ensures that clients needing nursing facility care can have access to the facility of choice that meets their physical, medical and social needs.

To avoid multiple moves, it is important to project the future needs of a resident before choosing a skilled nursing facility. For instance, if you or a loved one have a need for respiratory therapy, you should determine which facilities provide ventilator services; or if there is an issue with alcoholism, you would want to ensure that a treatment program is available. Are there any conditions (like obesity or sensitive skin) requiring special bedding? Any mental health conditions that need to be considered? Sometimes, skilled nursing facilities will not have necessary assistive devices in place, but have an arrangement with similar facilities to share equipment, or use vendors with an equipment pool that can be utilized.

Consider the following questions when you select a skilled nursing facility –

- Are private rooms an option, or are all rooms shared?
- Can changes in room assignments be easily made?
- Is there a registered nurse always available for patient care? To families?
- What is the ratio of staff to patients?
- What kind of security is provided for personal items?
- Is the latest state inspection report available?

SENIOR REAL ESTATE SPECIALISTS: Vital Resources for Dealing With Transition

By Kathy Bryant,
Broker / Realtor, Seniors
Real Estate Specialist

Are you or a loved one wondering if it is time to begin talking about possibly moving from a home lived in for many years? Are you concerned with how best to make this decision and where to begin? Are you or your loved one overwhelmed with questions about what to do with everything?

You may be concerned about where to start and who to talk with. How can you possibly know who to trust? There may be too many choices causing confusion and you or your loved one may be unsure about what the best living situation is. The answers to these and many other questions and concerns are as varied as the individual.

The importance of discussing and addressing these issues early on cannot be overstated. The more assistance a Seniors Real Estate Specialist (SRES) can offer in making these decisions, the better. A successful transition to a new living situation is directly affected by the amount of control and impact the person in question has in the decision process. This is one reason it is important to open the dialogue while you or your loved one is able to have a voice in making these important life-changing choices.

One of the biggest mistakes that can be made is missing an opportunity. Many people put off until tomorrow what can and should be done today. Delaying this type of planning may be taking away the very opportunity for you or a loved one to live your/their life on your/their terms. Action at this time will give this gift.

This is why it is imperative to align yourself with professionals who specialize in assisting senior citizens and their families. It is vital to work with someone who can walk you or your loved one through the myriad of details involved with this very unique and often emotional experience. A good Seniors Real Estate Specialist will have assembled a comprehensive program to assist seniors, their families and others who care about them through this often complicated and emotional stage of life.

Let's identify key issues many seniors and their families face. Here are a few areas that consistently come up as concerns:

- Does the house still suit my needs?
- Is it safe and secure to live in?
- Are there parts of the house that are no longer easily accessible because of health concerns or fear?
- Are there stairs to negotiate to get to the bedroom?
- Is the laundry room on the main floor or in the basement?
- What is the comfort level with carrying laundry up and down stairs?
- What is the parking area like – is it covered? Is there easy access to the entrance when bringing in groceries?
- Are repairs needed around the house?
- Are there family and friends that live in the area?
- Are family members, friends, etc. able to assist with maintenance?

These questions and concerns can be addressed between the homeowner, the homeowner's family and the Senior Real Estate Specialist. Often, after a thorough discussion, the parties are able to determine whether the home still serves the homeowner's needs. Perhaps with only minor modifications, they can stay in their home. A Senior Real Estate Specialist can help facilitate those changes.

Other times after participating in conversation it becomes apparent to the senior that the home no longer fits his/her needs. If this is the case, a Senior Real Estate Specialist should have excellent resources to assist in determining what the next step should be.

This is not an easy overnight decision. It is a process. It sometimes takes years to decide when and if it is time to move. The decision is often wrought with high emotions for both the senior and the senior's family. The process assists everyone in recognizing when the home can no longer be cared for, or that it is no longer safe for the senior to live in the home.

Remember, all Senior Real Estate Specialist are not created equal. This is one reason why it is important to open dialogue with a trusted professional who is willing and able to give the time and respect to the senior that they deserve. The Seniors Real Estate Specialist should have the knowledge, experience, and desire to help the senior through this process. A good Senior Real Estate Specialist will also have a true understanding of a senior's unique needs because of their experience that comes with time and dedication of working with seniors and their families.

So it has been with real empathy and caring that the Senior Real Estate Specialist designation was developed. A Senior Real Estate Specialist should empower seniors and their families and help with reassurance that they are in good hands – hands that will care for you or your loved one and help you along the way.

The mission is to give this gift of knowledge and caring to our clients. It should be a Senior Real Estate Specialist's goal to earn your trust and help by being here to answer questions, provide references for trusted resources and support the seniors we work with during their transition.

Always remember, a Senior Real Estate Specialist should be there to help in any possible way. A good Senior Real Estate Specialist will have a desire to help you or your loved one live your life on your terms.

The Adult Family Home Option

By John Ficker,
Executive Director of the Adult
Family Home Council

There is nothing more personal than the well-being and care of your loved ones. When families are searching for long-term care options, they are seeking safe, individualized care. For that reason, adult family homes are quickly becoming one of the most popular options for long-term care.

Adult family homes provide the safe, individualized care families are looking for, along with providing a home-setting and quality 24-hour care and services from compassionate caregivers. There are currently over 3,000 adult family homes in Washington, this number continues to grow each year. One major reason behind this growth is that adult family homes offer affordable long-term care rates. There are fees depending on the level of individual care needed and the type of room desired, but most homes accept private pay, Medicaid, Veteran's Aid & Attendance and long-term care insurance. This makes it easy for families to come up with a plan to best fit their needs and the needs of their loved one.

One of the most valuable characteristics of adult family homes is that they go beyond a care facility. Adult family homes allow for a community living environment. Homes can house up to six residents, some of whom are able to share a room, they eat meals together, participate in in-home activities together and do life together every day. All the while each still receiving the individualized care they need from passionate caregivers who staff the home 24-hours around-the-clock.

During the pandemic adult family homes experienced the lowest infection rate of any long-term care setting. While every skilled nursing facility and more that $\frac{3}{4}$ of assisted living facilities experienced an outbreak, only 15% of adult family homes had to manage a COVID positive environment. We credit our smaller size and the diligence of the adult family home staff in keeping the virus out of our facility and keeping our residents safe.

The cornerstone of every adult family home is family. Most owners of adult family homes are families who have decided to open their doors to vulnerable adults and welcome them into their family. A majority of owners not only run the day-to-day operations of the home, but they also live in the home with their families. Choosing an adult family home for your loved one is more than just selecting a long-term care option; it is choosing to become a part of the family.

More and more adult family homes are offering robust, person-centered activity programs. Some homes provide transportation services and all homes support residents in accessing community events such as church, bingo and social gatherings. They also accompany residents to their medical appointments. Residents' input in activities, meal planning and the delivery of services is always encouraged.

Adult family homes serve a wide variety of residents. Some homes care for younger developmentally disabled adults and other care for elders at end of life. Many homes focus on providing care for those living with Alzheimer's disease or other forms of dementia. Each home is small enough to specialize its care plan to the needs of the residents.

Adult family home operators and staff are all trained and certified by Washington Department of Social and Health Services and Department of Health. Their everyday caregiving staff are required to participate in ongoing continuing education and specialty training to ensure they can demonstrate best practice in care delivery. Adult family homes are monitored and inspected regularly by the State of Washington's Department of Social and Health Services for compliance with regulations and support of residents' rights.

With the growing number of adult family homes statewide, the Adult Family Home Council continues to work as advocates for compassionate, individualized care. This work is done through advocacy, education, support and marketing. The Adult Family Home Council provides continuing education opportunities, dedicated support for members on the day-to-day operations of an adult family home, advocacy through legislative work and marketing tools to help fill beds statewide. There are also AFH Council chapters that meet around the state to share a meal together, receive continuing education credits and to discuss issues surrounding them locally involving the adult family home industry.

The Adult Family Home Council also helps homes market their vacant beds and supports families seeking care for a loved one. Through our website, or over the phone with staff we at the AFH Council are always gratified to help make the connection between those seeking and those offering care. When considering the best long-term care option for you or your loved one, look for more than just a facility and care plan, consider finding the perfect place where one of our members can welcome you home and welcome you as a part of their family.

Hospitals and Medical Clinics

After being admitted into the hospital, consider consulting a social worker or insurance representative who can be of assistance in connecting you with other community resources. He/she can also act as an advocate in decision making (e.g., discharge or post-hospital planning and clarification of your Medicare, Medicaid, and health insurance coverage).

Hospital chaplains and ethicists are other resources that can be utilized in some locations. Prior to leaving the hospital, request to see a discharge planner if you still have questions.

Before you go to the hospital –

- Have copies made of Advance Directives, Living Wills, and Durable Powers of Attorney for Health Care to give to each physician who attends you. (Always have extra copies made in case any of these are misplaced.) Take this information with you for all hospital contacts, including the Emergency Room
- Ask to meet with your surgeon before surgery. Take notes or ask someone to take notes for you
- Advise medical personnel about your medications (both prescription and non-prescription); bring all medications to the hospital with you.
- Bring a list of any telephone numbers you might need

CASE MANAGEMENT

Case management functions include a comprehensive needs assessment, service plan development, plan management, and monitoring. Supportive functions include advocacy, assistance consultation, family support, crisis intervention, and follow-up. Case management enables seniors to compare their long-term care needs with what is available – the goal being to live in the least restrictive environment possible, while obtaining necessary care.

The appropriateness of services for clients can be continually assessed through ongoing follow-up. This benefits the client by ensuring quality care and serves as a cost-control measure for the public.

Hospice

Hospice helps the terminally ill patient and the patient's loved ones cope with the physical, emotional, psychological, and spiritual distress of life-threatening illness and the final stages of life. Hospice care emphasizes the principles of death and dignity; it focuses on palliative rather than curative care; an individual's control over life; and elimination of isolation in dying. Services are usually provided in the home. Medicare covers hospice care provided by a Medicare-approved hospice program if the patient is eligible for Medicare Part A, and has been certified as terminally ill with a life expectancy of six months or less.

PHARMACY SERVICES

Often, medication becomes a medium by which you can sustain your quality of life as you age. Because of the increasing number of medications taken by older people, the statistics of prescription drug misuse are continuing to soar. Establishing a good relationship with your pharmacist will enable him/her to counsel you effectively. Make sure he or she has a record of all medications you are taking and be prepared to ask questions concerning prescriptions.

Medicare Part D Drug Coverage

Medicare Part D is part of the Medicare Prescription and Drug Modernization Act of 2003. Although it may be beneficial for Medicare recipients to enroll in the Medicare Prescription Drug Plan, IT IS NOT A REQUIREMENT. For seniors who choose not to enroll in Medicare Part D now, the premium increases 10 percent annually from their original eligibility date. Some seniors may qualify for extra help to reduce their prescription costs with the Medicare Part D Plan. Find out more about eligibility and qualifications by calling Medicare Customer Service at 800-633-4227 or by accessing information online at www.benefitscheckup.org.

Some plans may offer more coverage for a higher premium. However, you should always read the fine print to decide if the options are right for you.

REHABILITATION SERVICES/ PHYSICAL THERAPY

Most rehabilitation therapy services help you recover a loss of function following a disease or injury. Licensed by the State of Washington or certified by a national association, qualified therapists often work closely with highly-trained assistants. Treatment can be provided in a facility or in the home depending on the patients mobility.

Occupational Therapists focus on purposeful, real-life activity to restore independence in self-care, work and leisure. Many older clients requiring physical therapy have experienced serious disabling conditions, such as strokes or hip fractures. The therapist's goal is to help patients regain strength, flexibility, balance, and as much independence as possible.

Physical Therapists use special exercises and physical agents such as heat, cold, and ultrasound to build strength, restore lost physical abilities, control pain, and promote healing. Physical therapists often help people regain functional activities like the ability to walk.

Respiratory Therapists specialize in helping people with breathing problems through assessment, communication with physicians, administration of medications, teaching breathing techniques, and assistance with ventilators. Respiratory therapists work with a health care team to restore patients to the fullest possible physical recovery.

Speech Pathologists work with swallowing problems and speech difficulties. Therapists can determine if a person who has trouble swallowing can eat safely, work on how to decrease the risk of choking, and provide appropriate treatment to improve swallowing. Speech therapists also help clients with aphasia (inability to use language) and dysarthria (inability to produce intelligible speech), problems associated with strokes.

Caregiving

About 34.2 million Americans have provided unpaid care to an adult age 50 or older in the last 12 months. [Source: National Alliance for Caregiving and AARP. (2015). Caregiving in the U.S.]. The value of services provided by informal caregivers has steadily increased over the last decade, with an estimated economic value of $470 billion in 2013, up from $375 billion in 2007. [Source: AARP Public Policy Institute. (2015). Valuing the Invaluable: 2015 Update.]

A vast majority of caregivers (85%) care for a relative or other loved one. Caregiving can be as complex as full-time nursing care or as simple as telephone calls made on a regular basis. Schedule respite breaks regularly with other family members, or call community resources that can help.

THE FACTS ABOUT HOSPICE CARE

By Gina Drummond,
RN, MSN,
Chief Executive Officer
Hospice of Spokane

All too often, we hear people say they wished they had received hospice care sooner. For many, they did not know how much Hospice of Spokane could help or they had incorrect information about when and how to access hospice care. Some of the most misunderstood facts include:

HOSPICE IS NOT JUST FOR CANCER PATIENTS

Fact: Hospice care is for anyone with a life-limiting illness, regardless of the diagnosis. Many of our patients suffer from heart disease, neuromuscular illness, dementia, as well as cancer.

IF SOMEONE BECOMES A HOSPICE PATIENT, DEATH IS NOT THE ONLY OUTCOME

Fact: Hospice care helps people find meaning and purpose in their lives. Hospice of Spokane encourages a high quality of life so that patients can live as fully as possible, for as long as possible. Support for the family helps everyone savor each moment together.

IT IS NOT TOO EARLY FOR HOSPICE IF THE PERSON FEELS GOOD OR DOESN'T HAVE PAIN

Fact: The best time to begin hospice care is before pain and discomfort begin. An early referral gives the person and their family time to get to know their hospice team and receive support while planning for the future. A six-month prognosis and desire for comfort care without curative treatment should be all a person needs to receive a referral for hospice services.

HOSPICE CARE DOESN'T MEAN LEAVING YOUR HOME

Fact: Hospice services are provided in the person's home, wherever "home" may be. Family homes, nursing homes, and retirement facilities are just some of the places our patients reside.

HOSPICE IS NOT JUST FOR THE TERMINALLY ILL FAMILY MEMBER

Fact: Hospice care is unique because it is so comprehensive. In addition to patient-focused care, hospice supports the family and loved ones before, during and following death. We relieve families' stress and anxiety through education and counseling. Respite care is also available for caregivers who need an occasional break.

YOUR PHYSICIAN BECOMES PART OF THE HOSPICE TEAM

Fact: We work closely with you and your physician to develop an individualized plan for care. Our staff physician is also available if a patient doesn't have a physician or if a physician home visit is required.

ALL HOSPICE CARE IS NOT THE SAME

Fact: The quality of hospice care can vary dramatically due to expertise and philosophy. Beyond traditional hospice care, some hospices, such as ours, also offer special services to enhance people's end-of-life experiences – such as in-home pet therapy and music therapy.

HOSPICE CARE IS FULLY COVERED BY MOST HEALTH PLANS

Fact: Hospice is one of the most comprehensive, affordable healthcare services available. Medicare, Medicaid and most private insurances cover hospice services without co-pays or deductibles. Visits to the home, medications, equipment and pain-reducing treatments are usually fully covered.

HOSPICE IS NOT JUST FOR THE FINAL DAYS OF LIFE

Fact: One of the most frequent comments we hear from patients is, "I wish we had called you sooner." Patients and families are often surprised by the breadth of physical, emotional and spiritual care they receive from hospice services. With hospice support, families find they are more able to enjoy every day they have together. People with a six-month prognosis and who seek palliative (comfort) care without curative treatments are eligible for renewable hospice services.

Hospice of Spokane is our community's only nonprofit hospice, serving northeast Washington since 1977.

We have cared for thousands of people as a nondenominational agency striving to alleviate suffering while honoring the dignity of patients and families.

Choose a Nationally Recognized Hospital – It Matters!

Our two hospitals are nationally recognized for their patient care, meaning that we bring the highest level of care available in the nation right to our own community.

We offer two distinct specialties:

Rehabilitative Care

Rehabilitation Hospital of the Northwest is ranked in the U.S. in the Top 10% for patient care. And we've earned The Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval.

We treat patients recovering from:

- Strokes
- Brain injuries
- Spinal cord injuries
- Orthopedic injuries
- And more...

Long-Term Acute Care

Northern Idaho Advanced Care hospital is the first hospital in Idaho to earn The Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval for Respiratory Failure.

We treat patients recovering from serious illnesses or injuries such as:

- Trauma
- Wound healing
- Infectious diseases
- Acute respiratory failure
- Cardiovascular disease

Illnesses, Ailments and Prevention

If you or a loved one are suffering from an illness or disease, becoming educated about the condition is one of the most important things you can do. When you have gathered information, you can anticipate necessary changes.

WELLNESS IN SENIORS

More Important Than Ever

by Sullivan Park Assisted Living Community

When you think of senior living, what comes to mind? Probably Bingo, right?

Bingo is great, but senior living is about so much more. Senior living can also be exercise classes and fashion shows. Ladies' night out and singing competitions.

Frankly, senior living can be just about anything.

The key to modern senior living is wellness — reaching body, mind and spirit to help older adults enjoy their senior years to the fullest.

To do that, it requires a holistic approach to well-being with an understanding of the distinct needs for seniors. To that end, we examine ways of ensuring that the physical and mental health of seniors is always the top priority.

PHYSICAL WELLNESS

The number one health threat to seniors isn't cancer or heart disease, it's falling.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), every year 36 million seniors fall, with three million ending up in emergency departments. Furthermore, falling once doubles a senior's chances of falling again.

It's why exercise and fall prevention classes are vital to keeping seniors safe. Seniors should keep up with all routine medical appointments to ensure that any changes to their health are noted as quickly as possible, with action taken.

Furthermore, exercise classes are vital to helping reduce falls. From the age of 30 onwards we begin to lose 3-5% of our muscle mass each decade. Exercise classes for seniors can help mitigate that deterioration — finding an appropriate class, be it seated exercises, standing or a combination of both, helps strengthen your muscles.

It's also a good idea to find activity in everyday life—brisk walks, tai chi, chair yoga, even gardening or cleaning. Being up on your feet and moving around helps prevent falls.

Taking care of your eyesight is also key to reducing falls. With many seniors experiencing vision problems as they age, they often just don't see a tripping hazard in their path. Annual appointment with an eyecare professional can help ensure that any deterioration to their vision is addressed quickly.

MENTAL HEALTH WELLNESS

It's never been more important to understand and acknowledge mental health in seniors. The COVID-19 pandemic and ensuing lockdowns meant that many seniors went months, if not longer, without seeing their loved ones.

As we begin to enter the post-

COVID world, that acknowledgement of mental health among seniors needs to continue.

The CDC reports that 20% of people ages 55 or older experience a mental health concern. In addition, the CDC also notes that adults 65 or older are more likely than adults between the ages of 50–64 to report that they “rarely” or “never” receive the social and emotional support they need.

These mental health concerns can manifest in a variety of ways, including depression, anxiety and cognitive impairment. From there, seniors often withdraw socially, relationships become frayed or distant, and then that causes depression or anxiety to deepen, perpetuating a cycle.

But even beyond serious mental health concerns, tending to the day-to-day emotional and spiritual needs of seniors has never been more important.

Senior living communities need to provide an ever-changing and varied schedule of activities that allows residents to pick and choose the events that best suit their interests and talents. Appealing to every part of what makes us who we are is what allows for someone to thrive in their senior years.

FINDING THE RIGHT SENIOR LIVING COMMUNITY

If it's time to consider senior living for yourself or a loved one, it's important to get a full sense of the services and offerings they have that will best suit your physical, emotional and spiritual needs.

At Sullivan Park Assisted Living Community, we take the time to get to know all of our residents and help them live life to the fullest every day. If you're interested in learning more about us, visit prestigecare.com and search “Sullivan Park”, or contact us at (509) 924-5555 to set up a tour.
